Translate the following paragraph into Hindi or Marathi.

There is democracy in our country. Fortunately women have not to fight for their political rights in India. Our constitution lays down the principle of equal political rights for women. Every adult woman has a right to vote and contest elections. This certainly has raised her status in society. There is no doubt that with the gradual spread of education among women they will become more and more aware of their problems. In fact, evils like purdah- system should be rejected outright. The Indian women should breathe in the air of freedom so that they may have full opportunity to develop themselves as good mothers, good wives and good citizens.
